Gleichen, Alberta, April 8, 1909.

Gleichen's growing time is here—grow with it.

April's showers so far have been flakes of the beautiful.

Already Gleichen farmers are smiling at the prospects of the coming bumper crops—they look good.Strange, though true—Alberta farmers welcome a snowstorm in April or May, yet it is not often they get it.In Quebec a twelve million dollar beer trust has been organized, but the millions who drink the beer will not likely get any more on trust than formerly.The Gleichen Board of Trade has not yet taken any action with regard to a Canadian dreadnought proposition, but no doubt the energetic president will bring up the question for settlement at the next meeting.There are now several hundred small subscription and other accounts due The Call and the proprietor will consider it a favor to have these paid at once as the improvements being made are expensive and the amounts are required to meet them.Gleichen is the centre of the greatest irrigation scheme on the American continent, and since the first of this month an engineering staff of 75 members started the work of directing 600 miles of canal and ditch excavation now under contract.With the number of settlers arriving here daily it becomes more and more evident that our big crop of last year opened the eyes of the world to what has been accomplished here on a smaller scale for many years. What will happen after our next crop?It is a sign of the enjoyment of good health to be a booster. You feel like saying or doing something good when you feel healthy and feel happy and contented. A boomer is not happy. He is selfish and wants every good thing for himself—see the difference?Strathmore, Namaka and Cluny will all have elevators to handle the big crops next fall now being seeded in this big district and Gleichen is pretty sure to have at least one more elevator by then. This is the very best evidence of progress any district can hope for, as elevator companies only build when they see there is business for them.The Council held a public meeting in the Foresters' hall Friday evening, but not a ratepayer attended, save the members of the council. This being the second public Council meeting at which no ratepayers attended, the councillors have—quite naturally—concluded that the public is not very much interested in the administration of the town's affairs, and in future they will not hire a hall for the purpose. Who can blame them? This is not only to be regretted but it is quite unfair.
Public meetings were demanded last election, and now when granted and the councillors express a desire to learn the electors wishes they get no response it is treating the council shabbily to put it mildly. It is a very poor way to secure good councillors to treat them in this way and let us hope the electors will mend their ways and show a desire to make this the progressive town it should be.A rumor has been going around that two more cabinet ministers may be added to the Alberta Legislature, and although no new portfolios can be created until the house meets again next winter some of the newspapers are already naming men to fill the positions when the time arrives. In the discussion, after mentioning many names, the Calgary morning Albertan remarks:"Another man who has made good in the house, who is strong, aggressive and independent, whose claim for advancement cannot be overlooked, is E. H. Riley, who has just won such a signal victory in his riding."The Albertan is right. When the portfolios are being passed around Gleichen's member cannot be overlooked. He has proved himself a capable politician, and before many moons we should be addressing our letters "To the Honorable E. H. Riley, Minister of Railways."There are in Canada—in Toronto and some other places—a bunch of blatant loyalists who, if one would take them at their own valuation, are more loyal than the king. On every occasion they prate of their loyalty to the old flag and the empire to which we belong, and never lose an opportunity of placing themselves on record, by resolution or word of mouth, in regard to the extra fine brand of loyalty which attaches to them, says the Calgary Daily News.The papers and people should remember that no man deserves credit for being loyal any more than he does for being honest. Loyalty to one's home, province and country should be the privilege and pride of every man who deserves the name of a man, and when we see a bunch of "stiffs" arrogating to themselves all the loyalty of this country and gathering in so much that doesn't belong to them that they howl to export it overseas, we feel like putting up a demurrer in favor of an export duty on loyalty so that we may be allowed to keep some on this side of the herring pond for home use.Loyalty to Canada is good enough for the average Canadian, and when he is true to himself and his own country he "cannot then be false to any man," as old Polonus says. Loyalty begins at the fireside in the home, then to the municipality, to the Province, to the Dominion and to the empire—the circle is pretty wide when it reaches the Dominion from the Atlantic to the Pacific and from the 49th to the North Pole, and it's wider still when it touches the empire.H. J. ROBIECalgary's Leading

TOWN AND DISTRICT

Tomorrow is Good Friday and a public holiday.

Why not get up a few races and a ball match tomorrow.

A beautiful supply of Easter cards at Yates' Drug Store.

As another evidence of the growth of business at Gleichen another man has been added to the staff at the C. P. R. depot.

A Winnipeg despatch says the price of lumber will advance April 30th from $1 to $1.50.

The general meeting of the Board of Trade will be held on Saturday evening next owing to Good Friday being the regular meeting night.

The married men should be happy as there is little doing in town in Easter bonnets, but perhaps a bunch of "blue labels" are en route.

Gleichen will soon have a very strong and efficient polo team, if one may judge by the number who are practicing daily at the race track.

Friday next being Good Friday there will be service in St. Andrew's church at 11 a.m. Easter Sunday Services at 8.15 a.m. and 7.30 p.m.

Alf Daw has already received several challenges to box, but he has concluded not to accept any until his sprained wrist has fully recovered.

E. Wagstaff is coming to the front as a pugilist and has a couple of challenges. It is probable he and Geo. Moss will arrange a contest shortly.

Mrs. Griesbach entertained a number of young friends at her home last Friday evening in honor of Rev. Mr. Lynd, who leaves shortly for Airdrie.

Roy M. Allen has moved into his new house on his farm adjoining the Payne farm, and Mr. Payne and family are now located on their own place.

J. M. Telford presented The Call with a very fine large roast of veal the other day, that made the nicest kind of munching. Mr. Telford evidently knows an editor's weakness for nice juicy stuff.

Mr. Griesbach demands The Call shall ask the town fathers whether we now have a cemetery or a cow pasture? We would very much like to see the date of the hiking after the mild-eyed cow and the frisky cayuse.

Don't forget that Alberta won the prize for the best wheat grown in the whole world last year and Gleichen won the prize for the best wheat grown in Alberta. That's going some.

Bridge whist is occupying considerable time and attention in Gleichen of late. There are a few bridge hands belonging to both sexes in town, but the stakes played for are not very large.

Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Biggs are happy in the arrival of a daughter at their ranch on Rosebud creek Thursday, April 1st. Mr. and Mrs. James and a nurse left for the ranch on Sunday and it is stated the mother and child are doing nicely.

Now is the time to place your order for Formaline for treating grain. 50 per lb. at Yates' Drug Store.

For the convenience of their clients in and surrounding Gleichen, Messrs. Short Ross & Selwood, barristers, of Calgary, have opened a branch of their law office at Gleichen, where one member of their firm can be consulted on Tuesday afternoon and Wednesday morning of each week.

J. J. Bartsch states he has shipped four ears of hogs from Gleichen the past season and expresses the belief that there is sufficient business in this line to warrant the erection of a small packing house at Gleichen for use next season.

Rev. Mr. Lynd, who has been in charge of the Presbyterian Church work in the Gleichen district for the past year, leaves in a few days to take charge of the work in Airdrie, much to the regret of the many warm friends he has won for himself since his arrival here. Mr. Lynd has proved himself a great worker, and besides his ordinary church work since last fall has regularly taught the Shamrock school north of town as the trustees were unable to employ a regular teacher.

A ladies committee meeting will be held at Mrs. Cory's this Thursday afternoon at 3 o'clock to arrange for a calico ball for Easter Monday. All ladies cordially invited to attend.

A SAFE DIET RULE.

Eat the Smallest Amount of Food
That Will Preserve Health.

How shall one determine how much food to eat? Too much mystery has been thrown about this subject. Let your sensations decide. It must be kept in mind that the entire function of digestion and assimilation is carried on without conscious supervision or concurrence. It should be entirely unfelt and unknown, excepting by the feeling of bien etre which accompanies and follows its normal accomplishment.
Satiety is bad. It implies a sensation of fullness in the region of the stomach, and that means that too much food has been taken. The exact correspondence in a healthy animal between the appetite and the amount of food required is extraordinary. As a rule, the meal, unless eaten very slowly, should cease before the appetite is entirely satisfied, because a little time is required for the outlying organs and tissues to feel the effects of the food that has been ingested. If too little has been taken, it is easy enough to make it up at the next meal, and the appetite will be only the better and the food more grateful.

No one was ever sorry for having voluntarily eaten too little, while millions every day repent having eaten too much. It has been said that the great lesson homeopathy taught the world was this—that whereas physicians had been in the habit of giving the patient the largest dose he could stand, they have been led to see that their purpose was better subserved by giving him the smallest dose that would produce the desired effect. And so, it is with food. Instead of eating, as most people unfortunately do, as much as they can, they should eat the smallest amount that will keep them in good health.—Roger S. Tracy in Century.

THE MINISTER'S WIFE.

She Has Her Trials and Sorrows, but Also Her Reward.

The minister's wife exercises the statesmanship necessary to maintain a well ordered and cultured home on a small income—a home constantly under inspection by the whole parish.
She sets a fashion in becoming dress which tones up the taste of many of her parishioners whose husbands' incomes are two or three times as large as the minister's salary. She is the pastor and the actual head of the too numerous women's and children's organizations in the church, and she manages to keep most of the jealousies of their leaders from coming to the surface. She listens sympathetically to the confidences of the young women of the congregation and the small wedding fees which occasionally fall into her lap are meager wages for all the time and thought she has given and the tears she has wept to bring about these wedding services which her neighbors may laugh at, but which are the most delicate and valuable of all ministries when they issue in happy homes.

She knows the pains, the joys and the sorrows of motherhood, and she has strengthened the courage of many a shrinking wife flustering on the threshold of an unknown realm. When she has closed the eyes of the darling of her heart in the last sleep she goes out to cheer weary watchers by sick beds and to give her silent sympathy to mourners who will not be comforted.
She holds her gently won in poverty, trial and not seldom under unkind and unjust criticism, and as she grows older a light radiates from her patient face which moves discerning friends who otherwise would pity her to say, "Verily, she has her reward!"— Congregationalist.

She Was Too Enthusiastic.

"Teaching to me?" said an enthusiastic young schoolmistress, "is a holy calling. To sow in the young mind the seeds of future knowledge and watch them as they grow and develop is a pleasure greater than I can tell. I never weary of my work. My thoughts are only of—"

"I am very sorry," interrupted the young man to whom she was talking, "that you are so devoted to your profession, Miss Clara. I had hoped that some day I might have asked you—in fact, I called tonight—but I hardly dare go on in the light of what you say—" "You may go on, Mr. Smith," said the young lady softly. "I am a little too enthusiastic at times perhaps."

She Had to Forgive.

Mrs. Winks—Mrs. Ayres and her husband have had a dreadful quarrel just because she gave him a letter to mail and he carried it around in his pockets for a week. Isn't it too silly of her?
Mr. Winks—Maybe that would make you mad, too. Mrs. Winks—Oh, John, I couldn't lose my temper over a little thing like that. Mr. Winks—I'm glad to hear you say it, my dear. I just recall that I've still got that letter you gave me last Wednesday.

Escaped Her Notice.

"How did you like the way the minister announced upon our colloquialisms last Sunday?" asked Mrs. Old-castle.

"I didn't notice it," replied her hostess. "Me and Josiah were crowded out of our own pew and had to sit where we couldn't see him when he wasn't standing up."

The Spinster Aunt's Opinion.

Garnie—Do you think a woman is justified in marrying a man she doesn't know? Aunt Jane—She certainly wouldn't be justified in marrying a man she did know.

Nothing In It.

"I understand, professor, that Miss Squawker is coming to you to cultivate her voice. Is there anything in it?"
"Not for her."

TIMBER IN RIVER BEDS.

Fortune Awaits the Inventor of a Method to Recover It.

"If some scheme could be devised," said a Stillwater (Minn.) man, "by which the sunken logs which fill the beds of rivers and creeks in the logging sections of this country could only be recovered, immense fortunes would be made. Along the St. Croix waters it is estimated that logs enough are imbedded in the sand of river bottoms to keep mills running for years. Under present conditions the loss is total, for no successful method has ever been devised to effect this saving.

"Occasionally logs cut years ago are forced by the washings of floods from their sand beds and driven upon the shores, where the action of sun and wind dries them out sufficiently so that they will float down stream, but the percentage of logs recovered is small, and millions of dollars' worth of property is lost beyond recovery until some enterprising genius invents a machine or process to recover the timber.

"At Stillwater logs occasionally come to the surface bearing marks in use half a century ago, and when they appear the old lumbermen grow reminiscent of men who have been long forgotten, but who were important operators in the pioneer logging days of Wisconsin and Minnesota.

"No possible estimate can be made of the amount of timber thus lost, but lumbermen estimate that the rivers of Wisconsin, in the value of the logs buried in their sands, have fortunes of millions of dollars if the logs could be recovered. Wisconsin has been one of the big pine states, and your Chip-ewa, Wisconsin, St. Croix and Me-nominie rivers and their tributaries contain fortunes in sunken timber.

"Strange as it may appear, the value of the timber is not lessened, even after it has been submerged for half or quarter of a century. Efforts have been occasionally made to recover sunken logs. At one time a company was organized at Stillwater to dredge streams and thus recover some of the timber, but the plan did not work with any great degree of success, this method being found too expensive. Some one will come along some day with a plan, and this immensely valuable product, now lost, will be recovered."

APHORISMS.

Rest is the sweet sauce of labor.—
Plutarch.

To read without reflecting is like eating without digesting.—Burke.

Better a little chiding than a great deal of heartbreak.—Shakespeare.

Repentance is the golden key that opens the palace of eternity.—Milton.

A straight line is the shortest in morals as in mathematics.—Maria Edgeworth.

Think twice before you speak or act once, and you will speak or act the more wisely for it.—Franklin.

There is no impossibility to him who stands prepared to conquer every hazard. The fearful are the failing.—S. J.
Hale.

There never was a person who did anything worth doing that did not receive more than he gave.—H. W.
Hoeber.

Refinement creates beauty everywhere. It is the grossness of the spectator that discovers anything like grossness in the object.—Hallitt.

Brain.

The brain is an important organ, serving as it does to keep the head from collapsing. Almost all styles of doing the hair call for a head of some sort. Again, there is nothing like a head to set off a fine neck. Finally, we should feel rather foolish without our heads.

For a long time scientists were unable to discover why it is that the brain is divided into white and gray matter.
It remained for a clever French savant to solve the difficulty.

"Quite likely," said he, "the hard colors had not yet come in when man was created."

Psychology deals with the organic aspect of thought. To psychology we owe the knowledge that calf's brains make good soup.

Sir Colin Campbell's Commission.

When the Duke of Wellington was in India he "discovered" the soldier who afterward became Sir Colin Campbell.
That dashing warrior was in the commissariat service and had volunteered for an assault upon a hill fort. The duke saw a little round man run up a ladder and, receiving a pike thrust at the top, roll down like a ball to the bottom. He was, however, up again in an instant and, running up like a squirrel, was the first or among the first in the place.
The duke laughed, inquired about him and procured him a commission.

Whittier's Safeguard.

When an overtimid visitor from the city once commented to the poet Whittier upon the insecurity that seemed inseparable from so many doors opening out from all sides of the large old country home, the master of the house strove gently to restore confidence by pleading that most of them were locked at night.

Not to Be Thought Of.

Mrs. Newlywed—Yes, Harry has only one fault, dear fellow! He will smoke cigarettes. Mrs. Oldgirl—Why don't you break him off it? Mrs. Newlywed —And leave me nothing to scold him about? No, indeed!

Laying Down the Law.

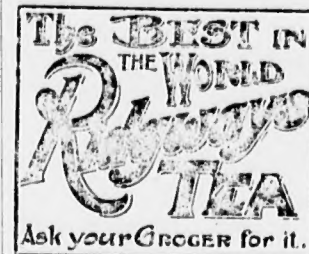

Lady (entertaining friend's little girl) —Do you take sugar, darling? The Darling—Yes, please. Lady—How many lumps? The Darling—Oh, about seven, and when I'm out of tea I start with sake.—Punch.

The Call is now prepared to supply all sizes and rulings for loose leaf ledgers to fit any bindings at Toronto or Montreal prices.

No other bottled High Grade Tea is half so satisfying as Ridgway's—over twenty years reputation for quality and flavor.

Drink one cup. That is carefully You'll agree that there is no tea at any price so good as Ridgway's—so rich in taste—so satisfactory.

The quality of Ridgway's Tea has stood the test of time since 1880. There are no other teas "just as good" as Rid-gway's.
No other tea is so rich in the essential elements as Ridgway's, with over seventy years reputation for quality and flavor.
Ridgway's supplied Her Majesty, the late Queen Victoria, with their col-orated M. A. brand of tea for more than forty years.
